Poetry

When I was a little girl, I was always trying to make friends with animals, dogs and cats especially- but any creature really. I thought that if I could learn to be like them, we could be friends! I thought this made a good idea for a poem that starts like this:

To make friends with a dog,

Try barking, scratching your hind quarters and digging up bones,

To make friends with a cat,

Try curling up like a question mark, purring and eating fish...

Continue this poem, using some of these creatures or any others that you choose. Use at least 5 creatures and remember to think carefully about presentation, full stops and capital letters and spelling.
